It's time to repay my student loans. Where do I find a summary of my loan information?

NSLDS, the National Student Loan Data System, is the U.S. Department of Education’s comprehensive database for federal student aid information. NSLDS keeps track of all your Title IV loans and grants. As the borrower, you can access this information at www.nslds.ed.gov.

WHAT CAN I FIND AT NSLDS?

- Your loan and/or grant amounts
- Your lender(s) or servicer(s) and their contact information
- Current balances
- Student loan types, statuses and disbursements
- Interest rates
- Your school(s) and their contact information

HOW DO I ACCESS NSLDS?

3. Read the privacy statement. You must accept these terms to use NSLDS.
5. Enter your Social Security number, the first two letters of your last name, your date of birth and your PIN. You should use the PIN assigned to you when you completed the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).
6. Select “Submit.”

*NSLDS does not display information about private alternative student loans. For information on those loans, please contact your lender.

IS THERE SOMEONE I CAN CONTACT IF I HAVE QUESTIONS?
