Department

Welcome Back

On behalf of the entire PSIR Department, I would like to welcome all of our returning and new students to the Spring 2016 semester. Whether you are interested in the 2016 presidential election, the U.S. military and political strategy in Afghanistan and Iraq, or the political consequences of the Great Recession, there are plenty of opportunities for you to learn more about political events and issues both inside and outside of the classroom over the next few months.

With this in mind, I would encourage all of you to take advantage of the many opportunities the Department offers to supplement your classroom learning, such as internships, study abroad, Pi Sigma Alpha, Model United Nations, the upcoming New York State Political Science Association Conference, and other special events.

If you have any questions about the PSIR Department, please feel free to come by and chat. Department Office: 845 257 3540, JFT 816.

Internships

Senator Charles Schumer Spring Internship

Interns will be expected to perform a wide variety of duties, including assisting the Regional Director and Deputy Regional Director in daily office operations, policy research, and event planning. Additionally, interns will be responsible for providing constituent services to individuals who contact the office seeking assistance. Interns will be able to work with all levels of Senate staff, and other federal, state, local agencies. Interns will frequently work on team and individual projects, as well as develop ideas for local, state, and federal policy.

Students who apply for this internship should demonstrate a high level of maturity and professional responsibility. Experience working in a government or political office is preferred. It is crucial that applicants possess strong verbal and written communication skills. Demonstrated ability to manage others will also be considered.

Students may do this internship for academic credit. Those interested should contact: Allison Biasotti

Deputy Regional Director
Office of U.S. Senator Charles E. Schumer
One Park Place | Suite 100 | Peekskill, NY 10566

Journals

Pi Sigma Alpha Undergraduate Journal

The Editorial Board of the Pi Sigma Alpha Undergraduate Journal at Oakland University is officially calling for manuscripts for the Spring 2016 issue.

The Pi Sigma Alpha Undergraduate Journal of Politics is an online, peer-reviewed journal dedicated to the publication of undergraduate student research from all areas of Political Science.

Undergraduates should consider submitting research they have completed in senior seminars, capstone courses, and methods courses. Honor theses are also welcome, as long as they are under 35 double-spaced pages. In general, manuscripts selected for publication are well-written with a well-developed thesis, compelling argument, and original analysis.

In the forthcoming Fall 2015 issue, the Journal will publish five manuscripts including topics on Guantanamo Bay as an unexceptional space, the women's right movement in Afghanistan, prison rape legislation, and female representation in legislatures across the globe. Therefore, the E-Board welcomes a wide range of manuscript topics! Previous issues are available online: <http://www.psjournal.org/>

The submission deadline is *FEBRUARY 1* for the Spring 2016 issue. Manuscripts should be submitted via email here: psajournalou@gmail.com

Jobs

Mortgage Bankers Association

Recent New Paltz grad and poli sci major Nichole Wischoff gives a shout-out to this semester's graduates: "I really want to connect other SUNY New Paltz students with jobs, as I remember how difficult it was right out of school to jump into something full-time and promising. The real estate finance industry finds itself with an aging workforce, and a great need for entry level talent to take up the charge. I know it isn't exactly political science material, but some of the opportunities and career paths most definitely are."

The Mortgage Bankers Association is holding a free online career fair on behalf of its member companies on Thursday, February 4th between 1-4pm ET. Our member companies are sourcing talent from graduating college students all over the country, and they are hiring at a rapid pace.

Common entry level job areas that are hiring are in

- Mortgage loan production (sales)
- Operations
- Loan servicing

The average starting salary for many of the positions start in the $40,000's, depending on the location. Careers in mortgage banking are suited to all backgrounds

There are many opportunities available starting out in mortgage banking and grads can make a long-term, fulfilling career out of it.

Conferences

Student Conference: Asia and the Environment

April 14-15, 2016

The Bard Center for Environmental Policy is pleased to host this second annual gathering designed specifically for undergraduate and graduate students engaged in research related to Asia and the environment. Students are invited to submit posters and papers for presentation at the conference.

Today it is impossible to think seriously about the challenges of sustainable development and the environment without understanding the local and global environmental footprint of rapid economic growth in Asia—and the Asian response. At the same time, Asian Studies students increasingly require familiarity with the scientific, cultural, and political dimensions of environmental crises and sustainable development.

With the support of the Henry Luce Foundation, Bard College is sponsoring this second annual student research conference, providing a venue for students to present undergraduate, masters and PhD level research at the intersection of these critical issues. The conference seeks to shed critical light on how we all might live sustainably—or not—in a 2050 world with three billion more people, limited resources, a thickening blanket of carbon dioxide heating the planet, and a global economic development process increasingly defined by Asian models and leadership.

The conference will be held on the campus of Bard College in Annandale-on-Hudson, NY in the scenic Hudson Valley, which is easily accessible by train from New York City. Registration is $30, and housing and meals will be provided for student participants. Meals are included for non-student registrants.

To stay informed about this conference and future opportunities, please sign up for our mailing list here.

To submit a paper for a panel or an idea for a poster presentation, please send a one paragraph abstract to jofrench@bard.edu. Undergraduate students must also include a letter of support from a professor. Proposals will be accepted through March 15, 2016.

Enter your essay to win a FREE trip to New York and speak at the United Nations.

By competing in the Many Languages, One World Essay contest, you could be selected for an all-expense-paid trip to share your ideas in a Global Youth Forum at Hofstra University and present at the United Nations!

About Many Languages, One World

Organized by ELS Educational Services, Inc., and the United Nations Academic Impact (UNAI), Many Languages, One World was created to promote multilingualism and the continued study of the six official languages of the United Nations, and to bring global-minded young scholars from all over the world together to engage in dialogue about global issues and initiatives. See the video on last year's winners at ManyLanguagesOneWorld.ELS.edu.

To Participate

The essay, not to exceed 2,000 words, should explore how multilingual ability advances global citizenship and cultural understanding. The essay should reflect the entrant's academic, cultural and national context. Entries must be in an official language of the United Nations – Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian or Spanish – that is neither your first language nor the principal language of instruction during your primary or secondary education.

Join the conversation on social media using #MLOW2016.

To Enter

You must be a full-time university student and must be 18 years of age or older by 31 March 2016. You must be recommended by a faculty member or authorized representative at the university you are currently attending in order to participate. For complete contest rules, eligibility and details, visit ManyLanguagesOneWorld.ELS.edu.

Many Languages, One World is a joint effort between ELS Educational Services, Inc., and the United Nations Academic Impact (UNAI). To learn more about UNAI, visit <https://academicimpact.un.org>.

Leadership and the American Presidency

The Center for Communication is launching a student correspondent program, open to students across the country, that will feature student writers who want to bring fresh perspectives and their voice to journalism across our platforms. Participants in the program will have their work published across all of our platforms and will also have opportunities to engage with other media organizations arranged by the Center for Communication.

Student correspondents will be allowed to choose their own topics — as long as they focus on career, student life or a current, relevant news piece. Occasionally topics may be assigned to you.

HOW DO I APPLY?

The application process has three rounds:

Round 1: Submit your application

To apply, you will need to submit a resume, cover letter and two writing samples.

Round 2: Produce an original story

If selected to move on to this round, you will be required to produce an original story in 72 hours.

Additional details will be provided if you are selected.

Round 3: Interview

If you are selected to move on to this round, you will interview with the Center's Director of Community.

All correspondents will receive a stipend upon successfully completing program. Throughout the course of the program, the Center will conduct weekly mentorship calls with the Student Correspondents with guidance and editorial support.

READY TO APPLY?

Submit your application to Foladé Bell, our Director of Community. Be sure to include "Student Correspondent Spring 2016" in the subject line.
