Letter of Introduction

Welcome, Off-Campus and Commuter Students!

Let's be real: being a college student is no walk in the park. As an off-campus/commuter student, you will most likely run into obstacles that are different from those faced by residential students. While trying to balance coursework, commuting, working, and having a social life may prove to be difficult, the Center for Student Engagement is here to help make your experiences as a SUNY New Paltz student as invigorating as possible. It all begins here.

Our office provides an array of services and resources specific to the off-campus and commuter student population. Our office is on the second floor of the Student Union in Room 211/212. The Student Union is the heart of our campus, and an environment for campus entertainment, activities, and information on how to get involved in campus life. The Student Union also houses many services for Off-Campus and Commuter Students, including the Commuter Lounge on the 3rd floor, and Commuter Lockers on the ground floor.

We have created this handbook to serve as a convenient resource regarding off-campus living. Whether you live at home with your family, or in an apartment in town, this handbook offers general guidance about issues that relate to you—the commuter student. We can help you find a roommate if there is extra room in your apartment, you are looking to move somewhere new, or seek a roommate instead of living on your own. While we cannot actually find an apartment for you, we can provide the basics to get you started on your journey with apartment rental guides and an online bulletin board to seek out new housing as well as apartment-mates.

If you have any questions, feel free to drop by our office (Student Union 211/212) Monday-Friday between the hours of 8:30am-5pm or give us a call at (845) 257-3025.

Different Types of Housing

Living with Family

Many of our students choose to live at home and commute to New Paltz for their classes. The reasons for living at home are different for everyone. For some, it makes best financial sense, while for others their families depend on them. Regardless of your reasons, living at home and commuting to college is a big transition! Here are some things to consider with the hopes of making the transition as simple as possible for you and for those who live with you.

Follow these tips to ease your transition into becoming a college commuter!

Commuting from Home Tips

Boundaries

If you're living at home with your family, talk about how your life will change now that you're a college student. What do you expect from them regarding your privacy and your personal space? It can be challenging for college students living at home to feel like they have independence and autonomy— discuss it! Now!

Curfew

If you live with your parent/ guardian, it's important to discuss expectations regarding your social life. Do you have to be home at a certain time? Check in with family? What are the rules now that you're in college? Don't forget that many of our activities take place in the evenings!

Study Time

It's important to have a place to do your schoolwork. Talk to your family about setting aside space for studying, and discuss some study expectations (noise, interruptions, etc.). Don't forget to utilize the spaces on campus like the library, the Commuter Lounge, or various computer labs.

Commuting from Home Tips

Money

You are probably saving some money by living at home, but what are the expectations regarding your finances? Talk to your family about gas money, tuition, paying for books, etc. Also, will you be expected to contribute “rent” money to your family? Be honest and upfront with your family regarding how taking college courses will impact your finances!

Meals

If you live with your family, are you still expected home for dinner at night? If you're the head of household, are you still expected to cook meals for your family? Talk about how meals will change as you start taking college courses. Also, consider getting a Commuter Meal Plan or Hawk Dollars so that you can eat meals here.

Getting to Campus

There are many options available to get to campus if you can't drive or carpool. If you're local, you can take the New Paltz Loop for free with your student I.D. A UCAT bus also runs from Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, and other towns in the area. If you do drive, make sure you purchase a campus parking permit and adjust your schedule accordingly to find parking!

Renting an Apartment

Lease: a legally binding agreement between the landlord and tenant(s) that outlines the rights and responsibilities of both parties.*

The lease holds an abundance of information that is extremely important for the tenant(s). It details rules the landlords and tenants agree to follow. Most leases are for a full calendar year. Before signing a lease, make sure you understand it and agree to the terms listed. If you are interested in an apartment, ask the landlord for a copy of the lease in order to gain perspective of the responsibilities and expectations required of you. Sample lease documents are available on the pages that follow.

Important Things to Look for in a Lease:

- Names and addresses of all parties listed.
- The cost of rent, when it is due, how it should be paid, and whether there are late fees.
- The beginning and ending dates of the lease.
- Security deposit amount and expectations.
- Who is responsible for paying which utilities.
- Whether or not pets are allowed.
- Who is responsible for maintenance and repairs.
- Who is responsible for disposing of trash and maintaining the property (mowing grass, shoveling snow, etc.)
- Limits on the number of persons allowed in the rental unit.

Security Deposits

A security deposit is money that protects landlords against damage beyond normal wear and tear, and provides a remedy for unpaid rent and cleanup funds for the rental. Almost every landlord will require you to pay a security deposit in addition to your first month's rent. It can be anywhere from 1 or 2 times your monthly rent.

Protecting your security deposit:

When moving in, the best way to protect your security deposit is to complete a detailed checklist of all the damages already present in the unit. Note things as small as the cracks in the windows, chipped floors, and stains in the carpet. Be sure that your landlord is present when you are assessing the condition and have them sign the checklist. If your landlord is unavailable for a walk through, be sure to take pictures and arrange to show them to your landlord when acquiring their signature on your checklist. When you move out, you should conduct the same kind of inspection with your landlord with the results recorded in writing. A sample move in/move out checklist is available on the pages that follow.

Did You Know:

- Landlords owning buildings with six or more apartments are required to place your security deposit in an interest-bearing account.
- As a tenant, you must be informed in writing of the bank's name and address and the amount of the deposit.
- The landlord is obligated to return the security deposit whether or not the tenant asks for its return if there is no damage to the rental unit.
- When problems arise regarding security deposits, tenants should first try to resolve them with the landlord before taking other action.

The Move-In/Out Checklist

The purpose of this checklist is to record the condition of the apartment at the beginning and end of your lease. Examine each item in the apartment and record by checking the appropriate column (G= Good, NG = Not Good). If there is an issue, be sure to describe it on a separate sheet, take a photo, and attach to the checklist. Be sure to sign and date all sheets.

Thinking of Getting a Roommate?

Splitting the expenses can be a great way to save money, especially as a college student. However, when considering living with roommates, it is important to ask yourself some key questions that can keep your life at home as stress-free as possible. Discussing things like the lease, finances, and lifestyle habits in the beginning of your search process can make for a successful living situation.

Before committing to a roommate, consider the following questions:

- Can you really afford the rent?
- How will the utilities be divided?
- How will food be divided?
- How will shared purchases be divided at the end of the year? I.E. furniture jointly purchased for the apartment.
- What is your definition of “cleanliness”?
- How will the chores be divided?
- Do you have/want a pet?
- Are you a morning or night person?
- How many guests are permitted at one time?
- What is the maximum stay for visiting guests?
- Can your relationship handle it?
- When are the “quiet/study hours”?
- Are you comfortable with smoking and/or drinking?

This may seem like an overwhelming amount of things to consider but it is important to have these conversations with potential roommates in order to have the most beneficial living arrangement for everyone included in the agreement. A simple and effective way to get your roommates on the same page is to sit down and fill out a Roommate Agreement. Seems unnecessary, right? Wrong. Roommate Agreements can be legally binding documents and also serve a great starting point for having these conversations with your roommates. This is a great document to have access to if you ever need to refer back to your agreement throughout the year. A sample Roommate Agreement is provided on the next page.

Roommate Tips

Respect

Treat your roommate how you would want to be treated. Even if you think they won't mind you borrowing their stuff or having guests, they might. It's always a good move to check with them first.

Study Time

If you like to study in a group or with music and your roommate needs complete silence, you might want to discuss alternating who gets the common space and who goes to the library or their room.

Guests

You should discuss with your roommate the frequency and amount of guests you are both comfortable with in the rental.

Roommate Tips

Conflict

If something that your roommate did is bothering you, they should be the first to know. It's best to calmly discuss things as they come up, instead of holding back and letting it build up over the course of a semester or year.

Change

The truth is, things may not always go as expected. Sometimes things will come up, and you and your roommate will have to adjust the "rules" and be flexible as time goes on.

Clarity

The BEST thing you can do to make sure your relationship with your roommate goes well is to be clear and address everything in the beginning. Take the time to discuss your likes and dislikes, and make sure you are both aware of each other's expectations.

Sample Roommate Agreement

We have signed a lease/rental agreement for (address of unit rented) on (date of agreement to begin). It is expected that all roommates will equally share all responsibilities of renting. Therefore, we have prepared and are willing to sign this document.

TERMS

This agreement will remain in effect from ____ to _____. If for any reason a roommate should move out before the date shown under the lease/rental agreement, the departing roommate will be held responsible until a replacement is found, if allowed by the lease. If a substitute roommate is found, the remaining roommate(s) must approve of them. The departing roommate is expected to notify the landlord as well as the other roommate(s) within 30 days so that proper arrangements can be made. The roommate who is leaving is still obligated to the landlord in terms of the lease and is accountable to find a new roommate to be responsible for the duration of the lease/rental agreement. The following roommates are included in this agreement:

Rent amount is $____. Amount each roommate is responsible for: $____.
Rent is due on the ____ of every month.

DEPOSIT

Roommates have a deposit of $____, each, totaling $____. Each roommate is responsible for his/her share of the charge associated with damages. If the cause cannot be determined, the roommates will split the cost evenly.

HOUSEHOLD SUPPLIES

A single ledger will be kept of all supplies purchased by each roommate. Supplies include things as paper towels, toilet paper, cleaning fluids, dish detergent, foil, trash bags, scrubs, and any other goods needed for the home that will be shared by all roommates.

FOOD AND GROCERY SHOPPING

Food expenses shall be shared by all roommates. Preparation of meals shall be determined by an attached schedule or food is to be bought by each roommate. There will be NO borrowing of food.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

All roommates agree to refrain from borrowing roommates personal items without prior approval. Exceptions to this should be clearly stated with the roommates reserving the right to change their minds about sharing their items and updating this agreement. Property that is borrowed will be used respectfully and returned in the same condition, and if not the roommate responsible for damage will be held liable.

CLEANING

All roommates agree to share the responsibilities of cleaning and maintenance. The roommates have decided to develop a schedule, which is attached. It states when each roommate will complete cleaning and maintenance jobs.

KITCHEN CLEANUP

Each roommate agrees to do their own dishes. A schedule of kitchen cleanup may be attached.

ADDITIONAL TERMS OF AGREEMENT

In addition to these items mentioned above, the following items have been known to cause conflict between roommates. If you foresee any of these as a problem, write out and attach any additional agreement.

- Smoking / Alcohol / Drugs
- Parties / Guests
- Quiet hours for studying / sleeping
- Parking
- Use of a sound system
- Compliance with landlord rules
- Shared areas
- Overnight guests
- Keys/locking doors
- Behavior of guests

Budgeting

Unfortunately, paying rent won't be your only expense when living off campus. Setting up a personal budget will be helpful in tracking your money throughout the school year. It is also great to know how much you will be able to afford on rent when you know your income and other expenses. There are five simple steps that you can complete to set up a monthly budget:

Record all sources of income (paychecks, refund checks, allowances, etc.)

Create a list of monthly expenses.

Split your expenses into two categories: FIXED (not likely to change) and VARIABLE (not so consistent).

Variable

- Cleaning Supplies
- Toiletries
- Clothing
- Entertainment
- Pet supplies
- Food and Groceries

Fixed

- Rent
- Utilities
- Renter's Insurance
- Loans
- Phone Bill
- TV and Wifi

Total your monthly income as well as your monthly expenses

Ask yourself: are your expenses more than your income? If the answer is yes, it's time to reevaluate some of those variable expenses!
