All enrolled students can serve as investigators/research team members on human subjects research. If the student was enrolled in Spring classes and is enrolled in Fall classes, they are considered “enrolled” during the summer term.

Students must have a faculty member serve as co-PI. This individual must complete all relevant human subjects training (e.g., CITI training) and sign the faculty assurances addendum. The faculty advisor will be assigned as an ancillary reviewer and must submit this review before the protocol will progress in the review process.

If there is an interruption in enrollment, the individual graduates, or is no longer a student at SUNY New Paltz, they can no longer serve as co-PI. They can serve as member of a research team where a full-time faculty member is the PI or co-PI.
