

Replay: Journal meeting with Poughkeepsie Charter Commission

Poughkeepsie Journal Editorial Board 4:25 p.m. EDT September 20, 2016

Buy Photo

(Photo: Poughkeepsie Journal)

The Poughkeepsie Journal Editorial Board met with members of the City of Poughkeepsie Charter Review Commission Tuesday. The commission is proposing structural changes to city operations — changes that ultimately would need voter approval. They include shifting to a better paid, full-time mayoral position and addressing the division of legislative and executive powers. You can find out more here <http://cityofpoughkeepsie.com/charterreview>.

Joining the Journal were City of Poughkeepsie Charter Review Commission Chairman Ron McGaw, Commission Vice Chairwoman Jode Millman, and Joshua Simons, senior research associate at Benjamin Center for Public Policy Initiatives at SUNY New Paltz. The Benjamin Center was hired to facilitate the commission's work. We will make the meeting available for replay.

Replay: Poughkeepsie Charter Commission talks with the Poughkeepsie Journal

Read or Share this story: <http://pojoneews.co/2dgujSm>

43:37

TOP TRENDING

American flags removed from Arli

(<http://www.poughkeepsiejournal.c>

MORE BRANDS THAN ANYONE
FAST, EASY DELIVERY
SHOP LOW PRICES TODAY!

SLEEPYS
The Only Mattress Professionals

SHOP NOW ▶